

I am a long time flyer of more than one million actual miles and am absolutely against allowing cell phones during flights. The close proximity of people will make for unsafe conditions for flight attendants to handle the inevitable conflicts which loud users will generate. Over the years, there's been a gradual decline in passenger civility and consideration which will be magnified by cell phone use. The brief time before the door closes and after landing that cell phones are currently allowed is a good indicator of how the entire flight will be if cell phones are allowed. Please do not allow cell phone use during flights!
